

The CEU Summer University announces the course:

Advocacy, Activism and the Internet: Communication Policy for Social Change

This intensive summer course brings together a broadly international group of researchers, policy advocates, technologists and human rights activists to gain new insights into the role which civil society can play in advocating for a free and open internet. Sessions will highlight the potential of technology and online tools for mobilizing and organizing constituencies in support of an open Internet and for enhancing the security and privacy of online communication.

This 2014 Course will focus on:

- Internet law and policy
- Online freedom of expression and open internet advocacy strategies
- Tools for digital security and privacy
- Communication rights and social change

Past faculty have come from: Witness, Human Rights Watch, OSCE, Privacy International, Center for Democracy and Technology, OSF, Tactical Technology Collective, Global Voices Online, Center for Internet and Society, Hivos, International Center for Policy Advocacy, Internews, Creative Commons, Hungarian Civil Liberties Union, Transparency International, Open Technology Initiative, Tor Project, Berkman Center

July 6-12 2014, Central European University, Budapest, Hungary

Application deadline: April 2, 2014 • Online application and further information: <http://www.summer.ceu.hu/advocacy-2014>